GDC Nowshera organized Extension Lectures on "MENSTRUAL HYGIENE" and "PREVENTION OF SEXUAL HARASSMENT AT WORKPLACE ACT, 2013"

Issues related to menstrual hygiene and sexual harassment are never discussed openly and most of the girls are ignorant of various aspects of these issues. As far as mensuration is concerned, it's a natural biological and physiological function of a normal woman body. Unfortunately, most of the adolescent girls don't know how to deal with their menstrual cycle in a proper way.

Besides, the college girls are also required to be acquainted with various provisions of 'Sexual Harassment of Women at Workplace (Prevention, Prohibition and Redressal) Act, 2013' so that they can report any incidence of sexual harassment to the Internal Complaint Committee of the college. With an aim to aware the girl students about these two issues; Women Empowerment Cell of the college in collaboration with Internal Complaint Committee Against Sexual Harassment (ICCASH), organized two extension lectures today. The topics of the lectures were; MENSTRUAL HYGIENE and 'Sexual Harassment of Women at Workplace (Prevention, Prohibition and Redressal) Act, 2013, abbreviated as POSH Act. The Resource person for the lecture on Menstrual Hygiene was Dr. Kalpana Arya, M.O. from Department of Health & Family Welfare, Sub Division Nowshera. As many as 50 girl students and staff members attended the program in Smart Classroom of the college.

The program started with the welcome address of Dr. Surinder Kumar, Principal of the college. In his speech, he emphasized on the need to organize such awareness programs which are directly related to the health of adolescent girls. He also motivated the girl students to talk openly about these issues which are still taboos in our society. The program continued with the lecture of the resource person, Dr. Kalpana Arya. She elaborated the concept of Puberty, physiology of mensuration, how to manage menstrual pain and the practices related to hygiene during menstrual cycle. She said that mensuration is a natural and physiological process and there is nothing to feel ashamed during this period. She also stressed upon the importance of frequently changing the sanitary napkins and disposing them off in a proper way. Smt. Anshu Sharma, ARSH Councillor, also provided counselling to the students regarding anaemia under 'ANAEMIA MUKT BHARAT'. The workers from the Department of Health & Family Welfare, Sub Division Nowshera also distributed Iron tablets among the students so as to meet the daily requirement of Iron supplements. Besides, the girls pruchasedsanitary napkins @ Rs 6/packet from ASHA workers. The girl students actively interacted with the Resource Person and cleared their doubts regarding the theme.

The second lecture on the topic 'Sexual Harassment of Women at Workplace (Prevention, Prohibition and Redressal) Act, 2013'was delivered by Prof. Pooja Devi, Convener, ICCASH, GDC Nowshera. She, in her Power Point Presentation,explained in detail the various provisions of the act including the definition of Sexual Harassment, Forms of Sexual Harassment, Workplace, Aggrieved Woman, Complainant & Respondent and various other terms mentioned in the Act. She also informed the students about the Internal Complaint Committee of the college along with names and contact details of the members. Any aggrieved student can lodge a written complaint to ICCASH and timely action shall be taken against the Respondent as per the provisions of the Act, she added. The students raised various queries which were satisfactorily answered by Prof. Pooja Devi.

The program ended with a formal Vote of Thanks by Prof. Pooja, Convener ICCASH. The proceedings of the program were carried out by Ms. Esha Sharma, student of B.Sc. Sem VI.

PRESS RELEASE

NSS Unit of Govt.Degree College Nowshera in collaboration with Department of Sociology organized a symposium on "Changing Role of Women in Modern era" on 29th October 2021 to commemorate "Azadi Ki Amrut Mahotsav".

While speaking on the occasion Principal of the college Dr.Surinder Kumar said that, women are becoming more noticeable and prominent in the professional as well as the public spheres. No longer considered as a financial liability, they have become independent and are the earning members of the family. The future of Indian women is bright and flourishing. The society is opening all the doors for them to progress and succeed, realizing their true potential. They are conquering every field, be it science, technology, research, defense, politics, space, literature, or arts.

Students from different semesters and faculty members of the college participated in the event. They deliberated on different themes related to the topics.

A nation cannot develop without the development of women in the fields of education and health.

In modern time, most women are educated. Educated women are capable of bringing socio-economic changes in society. The government has introduced some proactive laws in favor of women empowerment. The place of women in society is a critical factor in judging the success of any civilization.

Women today are found in large number in the work force today. The symposium concluded by showing how women can create their own identity in this patriarchal world through their courage and will power.

REPORT

Acid throwing, also called an acid attack, a vitriol attack or vitriol age, is a form of violent assault defined as the act of throwing acid or a similarly corrosive substance onto the body of another "with the intention to disfigure, maim, torture, or kill". Perpetrators of these attacks throw acid at their victims, usually at their faces, burning them, and damaging skin tissue, often exposing and sometimes dissolving the bones. The long term consequences of these attacks may include blindness, as well as permanent scarring of the face and body, along with far-reaching social, psychological, and economic difficulties. To highlight the issue and spread awareness a NUKKAD NATAK was organized by NSS volunteers in college campus.

Two Prominent Activities of GDC, Nowshera from 1st of Oct. to 10th of Dec. 2017.

Activity- 1: Organization of Rally and Awareness Campaign to Celebrate the 'Beti Bachao Beti Padhao', Abhiyan.

The students and the staff of Govt. Degree College, Nowshera organized a rally from the college campus to the office of the Sub-District Magistrate, Nowshera passing through various Educational Institutions and Tehsil Offices to create awareness among the various stake-holders regarding the cause of 'Beti Bachao Beti Padhao'. During the rally, appeals were made through speeches, slogans and posters to save the girl child. A copy of this message in the form of certificate was also handed over to all the Heads of various administrative offices and educational institutions by the college authorities.

BETI BACHAO BETI PADHAO RALLY

The GDC Nowshera has organized rally on the topic "BETI BACHAO BETI PADHAO". A large number of students participated in the rally to aware the people about the importance of girl child in the society. The rally was taken with the slogan "BETI BACHAO BETI PADHAO" and "BETI HAMARY DESH KA GEHNA". The faculty along with the principal GDC Nowshera guided and supervised the rally. The rally was taken from GDC Nowshera up to Nowshera market. The students stressed much on the education and rights of girl child.

Gender equality and women's empowerment are central to the Indian Government's social policies. This commitment is reflected in a variety of national and international policy initiatives such as setting up of National Commission for Women, shifting the approach to women's issues from welfare to development, the National Curriculum Framework 2005, the Right to Education Act 2009, reserving seats for women in the local bodies of panchayats and municipalities, and India's commitment to international frameworks such as the Sustainable Development Goals. However, despite continuous efforts by the Government focusing on the empowerment of women, rural women continue to remain a disadvantaged segment of society (Ghosh, et al., 2015) in India. According to UN India statistics, women comprise almost 40 percent of the agricultural labor force but control only 9 percent of the land in India. Of the 29 percent of women engaged in the laborforce, almost all of their work is informal and they underpaid and unprotected. Therefore it is no surprise that women's share in the GDP (17%) in India lags considerably behind the global average (37%).

While working with women collectives in Rajasthan, the entrenched social norms and gender stereotypes that prevent the inclusion of women as equal members of the society in all respects quickly became obvious. The objective of constituting these women collectives was to bring together a group of women who will be able to organize themselves to work toward greater self-reliance. The group was envisioned to be made capable enough to assert their independent right to make choices. Working with these women reinforced the reality that deep gender bias and pervasive patriarchal values in Indian society are the major hindrances in the empowerment of women. Many women showed complete unwillingness to be a part of such a group citing a lack of family support as the major reason. Illiterate women lacked self-confidence and therefore hesitated to be part of such groups.

Female literacy is an important indicator of women's empowerment (Eldred, 2013; Ghosh, 2007). The literacy rate of females in Rajasthan is only 52.12 percent, whereas the male literacy rate is 79.11 percent(Census of India, 2011) indicating the inequality of status and opportunity between men and women. Many scholars, researchers, and practitioners agree that education is an important means of empowering women to participate in the development process (Stromquist, 2015; Eldred, 2013; Ghosh, 2007). However, there is a need to go beyond simple access issues. Merely completing education or having access to the school will not solve the problem of gender inequality.

The National Council for Teacher Education (NCTE) has made an attempt by incorporating a gender study course in a teacher training module that requires engagement with gender perspectives whether in understanding the development of children and adolescents or in understanding issues of society, culture, equity, and diversity. The module's emphasis is on creating space within such courses to build teachers' abilities to make linkages between theory and real-life situations and to strengthen teachers' ability to conceptualize from a given experience.

However, the need to incorporate a curriculum on gender studies within a school syllabus remains. A curriculum at the primary level should be designed that critically addresses prejudiced social norms and structures. In a patriarchal society, gender equality difficult to understand and conceptualize. Boys are raised with a sense of entitlement, dominance, and privilege, while girls are raised to be submissive and shy. Changing this conceptual frame involves a paradigm shift. It is crucial to break down hierarchies and power networks that isolate females. Students should be encouraged to challenge narrow-minded notions. The change of mindset is only possible if children are sensitized about gender justice during their formative years.

The project Gender Equity Movement in Schools (GEMS) made a similar effort to sensitize gender equality among schoolchildren. It worked for two years with boys and girls between the ages of twelve and fourteen in public schools of Goa, Kota, and Mumbai. The project aimed to promote gender equality by encouraging equal relationships, critical examination of social norms, defining gender roles and responsibilities, and questioning the perpetuation of gender-based violence by incorporating that questioning in the ongoing school curriculum. The project used extracurricular activities, role-playing, and games for this purpose. Over the course of the program, the study found that participating students were more supportive of girls pursuing higher education and marrying later in life, and of boys and men contributing to household tasks.

Implementation of the well-defined activity-based systematic curriculum in all state and central education boards will give legitimacy to gender education. Following commitments that Indian policymakers can make to achieve this vision is recommended. Good policy frameworks are a first step in addressing the problem.
